THE GOVERNOR TALKS

Says Lawlessness in Breathitt Will Be Overcome.

Many Have Criticized, He Declares, But Few Have Offered Feasible Remedies

ATTACKS REPUBLICANS ALSO

Frankfort, June 27—Gov. Beekham has issued a statement relative to the conditions that exist in Breathitt county, where the responsibility lay and the remedy. Among other things he says:

"A great many letters have come to me in the last few weeks, some from those who are friends, some from those who are not, urging me to use radical measures in dealing with the unfortunate trouble in Breathitt county, to declare martial law and to have trials of the accused by court martial, to remove judges and other officials, and, in fact, to do most anything for which there is absolutely no warrant of law to do upon the part of the executive. A number of newspapers in the state, some kindly in their feelings toward me, others most hostile and bitter, have come out in heavy editorials and said 'it was up to the governor to do something' to put a stop to this lawlessness and crime. None of them, however, with honorable exceptions, ever suggested in their infinite wisdom a plan to the governor as to what he should do."

"The Breathitt county trouble is altogether local, and the effort to throw odium on the entire state on account of it is due solely to sectional hate or political exigency. It is with critics in our own state that I propose to deal. The people of the whole state have been indignantly and justly aroused over the crimes recently committed in that county, and in their impulsive resentment against the guilty have been a little impatient for results. Their feeling about the situation is to be commended, for it shows the character of our noble and law-abiding people. They have demanded that I should declare martial law there, and have all come tried by court-martial. In their impatience they have forgotten that the governor of Kentucky has absolutely no such right, and if he should attempt to use arbitrary power he would be and ought to be impeached. I have been active in every way to aid the enforcement of the law."

"While I believe Judge Redwine to be an honest and capable judge, I urged him several days before his court began not to try these cases himself, but to transfer them to another county, or allow me to appoint another judge. I feared that convictions might not be had in Breathitt county. But he took a different view of it, and his conduct in the recent trials showed that he was honest and earnest in his desire to see the law enforced. He has called a special term of the Breathitt court for the further investigation of crimes committed in that county, and I believe that it will be only a short time before every citizen in the county will see that the law is supreme and that there must be an end of crime."

He winds up with an attack on Republicans on account of the Goebel assassination and on a Louisville newspaper.

Mrs. Samuel S. Miller returned to Louisville today at noon after a visit to friends and relatives in the city.

WEEK'S NEWS IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Cleavings this week were $637,312 Same week last year 537,589 Increase 89,623

Business with the banks again show a good increase over the same week last year. Tuesday, June 30, ends the first half of the fiscal year for the local institutions and indications are that the distribution of earnings and additions to surpluses will equal the best yet made.

General business, on account of the bad weather, has been quiet for some time. Crops are not in as good condition as could be wished for, and trade movements are feeling the effects. Dunn and Bradstreet report the same conditions generally over the country. Retail trade this week has been quiet also.

The first lot of wheat was received this week by H. L. Bradley & Co. The wheat crop of the county is the largest by far on record, and no doubt will bring a big price. There is a shortage in all other grain countries and the American farmer will reap the benefit. Wheat is up at Chicago between 7 and 8 cents since June 3, September wheat selling at 80 1/2 cents.

The New York Financier this week publishes its thirteenth annual "roll of honor" of the national banks of the United States. The roll is composed of national banks which report surplus and profits in excess of capital, the date chosen for completion purposes being September, when the reports of the banks are issued in book form by the controller of the currency. The present roll of honor breaks all previous records numerically, no less than 592 banks finding representation. This is a gain of 99 over the previous year and 158 over 1900. Out of every 100 banks doing business, therefore, something like 12 are roll of honor banks.

Not a single Louisville bank appears in the list and the only bank in the state, in fact, which has a place in this roll of honor is the First National of Paducah, which has a capital of $100,000 and a surplus and undivided profits of $120,295, or a percentage of 120.12 to capital.

A BIG MARKET.

EXTENDED TO CITY SCALES THIS MORNING.

The market this morning was one of the largest on record in Paducah, according to Market Master Woods, and was decidedly the largest in many months. The country people had their vegetables, etc., strung from Broadway back to the city scales, a distance of nearly two blocks. There was a great quantity as well as great variety of vegetables at reasonable prices and large quantities were sold.

ANXIETY AS TO THE WHEREABOUTS OF ANDY FLETCHER DISPELLED.

HE MAY VISIT HERE

Rear Admiral Terry Coming to Kentucky Soon.

He Expects to Visit Louisville, Odessa and Paducah on His Vacation.

HE IS DUE ABOUT JULY FIRST

In connection with a picture of Rear Admiral Silas Wright Terry of the Washington navy yard, who has been a guest in this city of his nephew, Mr. Muscoe Barnett, and is expected here during an approaching visit to Kentucky, the Louisville Times says:

Rear Admiral Silas Wright Terry, commander of the Washington navy yard, will arrive in Louisville early next month to visit his niece, Mrs. W. B. Pace of 1426 Second street, on his way to his old home at Odessa, in Trigg county.

Admiral Terry is one of the best known commanders in the American navy. He was appointed to the Annapolis academy from Kentucky in 1858 and served through the Civil war with conspicuous credit. He was in the noted Red river expedition in command of the transport Benett. Admiral Porter in a letter to the secretary of the navy wrote of Terry, who was then an ensign, in the very highest terms. The president advanced him five numbers for his gallant work in that expedition. In 1864 he was placed on Admiral Porter's staff. He served with distinction during the war with Spain. Admiral Terry succeeded Admiral Evans to the command of the battleship Iowa.

ATTACKED TOWN BOYS

Fight at a South Side Church Investigated Today.

One Boy Fined for Carrying a Pistol—Other Cases in Police Court.

Leslie Arnold, Claude English and Horace English, three young men from the city, went to one of the churches in Mechanicsburg a few nights ago, it seems, to attend the revival. The boys up there have never since Paducah's inception been overly fond of the boys from the city, as many of the "old boys" can attest, and these three young men met with some objection. It appears from the evidence brought into court today that a young man named Will Tucker attacked them and jerked one of them around and brought about trouble, during which one of the young men from town, Leslie Arnold, drew a pistol, but did not use it. All the young men were acquitted of a breach of the peace, but Arnold was fined $25 and costs and given ten days in jail for carrying concealed a deadly weapon, and took an appeal. The court informed Tucker that the evidence showed he was the guilty one, and he would either assess a fine against him then and there or grant a continuance and let him introduce witnesses. Tucker asked and was granted a continuance.

John Pete Baker was fined $5 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. J. K. Lyon was fined $1 and costs for a plain drunk and the case against Andrew Boyd, for cutting a colored barber who has not been found, was continued until Wednesday.

SMALL CROWD

GOES ON THE ST. LOUIS ON ACCOUNT OF WEATHER.

The Elks excursion on the City of St. Louis yesterday afternoon and last night was very poorly attended on account of the weather. The big steamer made the trip, however, and everybody aboard enjoyed it very much.

Today another excursion will be run by the boat owners, and tomorrow the Elks will run an excursion to Cairo, leaving at 9:30.

FELL OFF THE CAR

Probably Fatal Accident to Collector Ledford.

His Head Hit the Street With Great Force and He Has Since Been Unconscious.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENT UNKNOWN

Mr. Walter T. Ledford, a collector for the Paducah Loan Co., on legal row, fell from a park blue street car near 13th and Broadway last night about 9:15 o'clock and sustained injuries which may prove fatal.

Mr. Ledford is a large man, weighing perhaps 200 pounds and last evening boarded the car at the New Richmond with Mr. Henry Threlkeld, an employe of the Paducah Ice company, saying that he was going to get off at 18th street.

They took a seat in the rear of the car, and nothing more was said about Mr. Ledford getting off. While at the street car company shed on West Broadway Mr. Threlkeld heard some of the ladies scream and looked around in time to see his companion strike the hard street.

The car was stopped and Mr. Ledford was found apparently dead, with the blood gushing from his ears and mouth. He was carried to the home of Mr. J. W. McKnight, across the street and Dr. Frank Boyd called to attend him.

The injured man evidently fell on his left shoulder or head judging from marks on his clothing, but there were no marks or bruises to indicate on what part of his head he struck. He was taken to his room at the loan office, on legal row, and remained unconscious until this morning, when he became partially rational, and spoke to his employer, Mr. T. E. Grasty.

Mr. Threlkeld does not know whether his companion fell off the car or attempted to step off without waiting for the car to stop. He stated to a reporter, however, that he heard no bell ring.

The motorman on the car, No. 94, was George Keeney, and the conductor Flavius Walters. They state that no bell was rung to stop the car, and that the fall of the passenger was heard plainly by nearly everybody aboard.

Mr. Ledford is 43 years of age and came here about six years ago from Rowing Springs, Ky., where his people now reside. He has been collecting ever since his residence here and is well known, especially among the working people. He has six children, one daughter and five sons, all residing in Rowing Springs except one son, who is now here.

This afternoon at 1 p.m. time Mr. Ledford was still unconscious, and it could not be determined what his chances for recovery were.

BIGGEST BOAT YET

CITY OF ST. LOUIS HAS AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

The big steamer St. Louis, now at the wharf, cost about $170,000 originally, and has been running since 1883. The last time she was sold was at auction at New Orleans, and the United States Marshal knocked her down for $3,100 and her debts, and the gentlemen who held mortgages on her for about $15,000 secured the boat by paying out $3,100 cash. It is not generally known that at one time a number of Paducah men owned an interest in her, two years ago owning half the steamer and selling out last summer.

An old Paducah boy, Mr. David A. Chilton, is agent for the steamer and Colonel Wm. Love, ex of the oldest mechanics and foundrymen in the state, looked over the boat today and declared that her machinery was the finest he ever saw in his life. The boat is still a veritable palace, despite the fact that she has been better days and is the largest steamer ever here. Many great men, including late President McKinley, have been entertained on her.

PLEASURE YACHTS

ERECTED AT EDDYVILLE ARE TRIUMPHS IN BOAT BUILDING.

The Eddyville Tale of Two Cities says: Last Saturday afternoon Mr. O. O. Cattlett launched his fine new yacht in the Cumberland river. The craft was built in Eddyville by Mr. John Hill, who by the way, is a boat builder of no mean reputation.

The yacht consumes gasoline as a fuel, is propelled by steam, and has a screw propeller exactly after the order of the great ocean going steamers. Two other boats of similar pattern though somewhat larger are near completion, and will be launched in a few days. We feel quite proud of the fact that our county can boast of such skill in ship building. The other two boats now near completion will belong to Mr. Morring and Captain Depp.

Attention calls every school child in the State will be able to cast at least one vote for his or her favorite teacher. But the voting will not be confined to school children. PARENTS OF PUPILS OR ANY OF THEIR FRIENDS MAY VOTE. The purpose of the Association being to elect the most popular school teacher in each county, as so considered by the public generally, as well as by the school children. Ballots contain ten spaces, so that if one pupil may be arranged and each giving ten cents be credited with his or her vote. If one parent wishes to cast ten votes, it may be done by writing his or her name on one of the spaces and remitting one dollar. It is not required that the name of the person voting be given at all. All the spaces for voters' names may be left blank. The Association wants, however, to enroll in the Kentucky Building at St. Louis next year the name of every child who cast one or more votes in the contest. Pupils are asked therefore to sign their names plainly to the ballots.

ALL EXPENSES OF THE TEACHERS WILL BE PAID BY THE ASSOCIATION. This will include railroad transportation from Louisville to St. Louis and return, board at one of the best hotels in the city for six days and admission to the exposition grounds for six days. THREE PARTIES WILL BE MADE UP FROM THE MOST POPULAR TEACHERS to make the trip more profitable and more enjoyable. Each of these parties will consist of forty (40) teachers. This would make a total of 120 teachers, but as there are only 120 counties in Kentucky, the Association has decided to allow two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular—to go from that county—Jefferson excepted—which casts the greatest number of votes in the contest. ALL TEACHERS IN THE STATE STAND ON AN EQUAL FOOTING in this contest. The teacher with only twenty pupils may receive more votes than the teacher with five or six times as many enrolled in his or her school, because the voting is not confined to children. The public will be an important factor.

Votes may be cast for any person who taught school during 1902 or is teaching now. This gives the teacher of a five months' school, which closed in November or December, the opportunity to be voted for during the vacation period.

ANY NUMBER OF BALLOTS MAY BE CAST AT ONE TIME. There is no limit. The more dollars sent in for any one teacher the more votes he or she will be credited with. ONE DOLLAR CASHES TEN VOTES; TWO DOLLARS CASHES TWENTY VOTES; THREE DOLLARS CASHES THIRTY VOTES; FOUR DOLLARS CASHES FORTY VOTES; FIVE DOLLARS CASHES FIFTY VOTES; TEN DOLLARS CASHES A HUNDRED VOTES; ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS CASHES ONE THOUSAND VOTES.

All of the money received in this contest, over and above that used in defraying expenses of the 120 most popular teachers of the State on their trip to the World's Fair, will go for the erection of a Kentucky Building at the exposition; so every voter in this contest may have the additional satisfaction of knowing that he has aided a worthy cause.

THE STANDING OF THE CONTESTANTS WILL BE PRINTED FREQUENTLY in each county to show his or her friends how the race is being run. Begin voting now for your favorite teacher. The votes will be counted under the supervision of the Educational Exhibit Committee of the Association. The personnel of this committee is as follows: Prof. H. G. Brownell, Louisville, Chairman; Prof. H. V. McCheaney, Frankfort; Prof. R. F. Halleck, Louisville; Prof. W. H. Bartholomew, Louisville; Prof. P. Paul Anderson, Lexington; Dr. Chase Palmer, Danville; President William Dnwidde, Jackson; Dr. W. G. Frost, Berea; Dr. B. B. Hinton, Louisville; Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville; Dr. Arthur Vager, Georgetown; Superintendent M. A. Cassidy, Lexington; Superintendent S. L. Froge, Frankfort; Prof. C. J. Crabbe, Ashland; Prof. McKenry Rhoads, Owensboro; Prof. T. S. Alley, Bellrose; Prof. C. C. Cherry, Bowling Green; Prof. Knox Spencer, Louisville; Miss Pattie M. Hill, Louisville; Mrs. Emily E. Bracken, Louisville, and Mrs. M. N. Tucker, Louisville. Members of the Educational Committee are not eligible to election in this contest.

REMEMBER EVERY COUNTY ELECTS ITS OWN FAVORITE TEACHER. Competition between counties only applies to the race for the 120th trip, the county outside of Jefferson, casting the largest total number of votes being granted the distinction of sending two teachers.

The result will be announced in every paper in the state, and in addition to this, a congratulatory message will go to the teacher elected in each county. Later the details of the trip will be arranged, each teacher chosen being given the privilege of selecting the month—June, July or August, 1904—in which he or she wants to make the trip.

IS TO REDEEM KENTUCKY.

The partisan press which is trying to induce its readers to think there is, or is going to be, a bitter, vindictive or damaging fight among Kentucky Republicans for the gubernatorial or other nominations, is trying to mislead them. There is nothing to justify such a presumption.

That there is to be a contest for the nominations, however, is certain, but it will not be the kind to impair or disrupt the party, as the Democratic contests do. In regard to the gubernatorial contest the Louisville Herald says:

"All three have the right to be candidates for governor. It is especially encouraging to the future of the business and politics of the state that men of such high character and standing are ardently and strenuously contending for the honor of the opportunity to do valuable service to Kentucky.
Col. Belmont represents the highest type of the successful, honorable and clear-headed business man, while Mr.
Willson and Judge Pratt are of the highest type of the honorable, able and successful lawyer. Each possesses in the highest degree the personal and public confidence of the community in which he lives and of the whole state
he is anxious to serve.

"Contests between men of this character are of course sharp and strong. Each recognizes the strength of the other and combats it. Each unquestionably has followers without much wisdom or prudence, who do and say vindictive things. This is according to the law made and provided under which the regular percentage of fools has its origin and is maintained. If it were not for these there wouldn't be any piquetness in politics. Even these have some wholesome restraints, however.
There's to be four years more of Teddy and the reign of prosperity,
and the man who endangers the Kentucky end of it must make up his mind that he won't be inside to partake. . . . Kentucky Republicans are not building for themselves alone this year. They are trustees for thousands of Democrats and independents who are seeking relief from machine corruption and mismanagement,
who are weary of seeing the courts and all the powers of state used for personal and political purposes at the demand of a self-perpetuating body of men who have lost the confidence of the whole people. Republicans are therefore to make a ticket and a policy of government that will be the hope of all Kentucky. It must be irreproachable in strength, character and purpose. It is no time for short horses. The platform must talk business. Candidates for all offices must subordinate themselves to the best judgment of the convention.
This year's fight is to redeem Kentucky for herself and the future."

BETTER SANITATION.

New Orleans has just turned the first spadeful of earth for a new $18-000,000 system of sanitary sewerage,
and the people seem to be very proud of the big work begun. Such public spiritedness is very gratifying, and

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues"
is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT
which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the LIVER.
They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

should be evident in every city in America.

In regard to the causes that led to the gigantic undertaking a dispatch says:

"The movement which culminated in the final breaking of ground today followed the epidemic fever in 1898.
Though the disease was mild and the mortality comparatively insignificant, immense business losses were suffered through the institution of prohibitive quarantines, and a great public demand was aroused for radical sanitary reform. The property holders promptly voted the required tax, necessary legislative action was secured and constitutional authority for the issue of bonds. Unavoidable delays, however, postponed the actual commencement of work until today."

This shows the importance of sanitation, and should be well considered by the people in other places who have given little thought to the subject.
Here in Paducah we have a complete system of sanitary sewerage in the most thickly populated sections, and yet hundreds of people do not use it.
If sanitary sewerage is a good thing it ought to be used, especially where it is already built. The effect of using the sewerage here, according to doctors, is already manifested in many ways, and has been beneficial in the extreme, but would be much more so if every house in the sewer district were connected with it.

It should be remembered by the Democrats who occasionally are foolish enough to try to compare the men charged with conspiracy in the Goebel case with those responsible for the assassinations in Breathitt county, that the Goebel conspirators were never proven guilty of the crime charged against them and are not believed guilty by thousands and thousands of people in the state. The only incriminating evidence against them has always turned out to be perjury, and the court of appeals has decided on several different occasions that the defendants did not have fair trials,
and has even gone so far as to order
the trial judge to vacate the bench at the next trials. This shows that the men accused have not been proven guilty, and it is not believed by fair minded people that they are guilty.
The Democratic politicians responsible for the lawlessness in Breathitt county, on the other hand, are generally believed to be guilty and have never denied their alleged connection with the conditions that prevail there,
or disclaimed responsibility for them.

People are beginning to wonder what became of the landable project for traveling some of the county roads
this summer. It was a good move, and one the farmers took a great deal of interest in, because gravel roads
give them better highways the year around, look better, cost less in the long run and are preferable in every way to the uncertain and often impassable dirt road. It is to be hoped the enterprise was not a four-flush.

The Fulton Leader certainly has a remarkable idea of justice. It thinks Judge Cantrill should wear a medal for assisting in stamping out lawlessness. Save the medal! If Justice were to meet Judge Cantrill in the middle of the road the fair mind would pass him by without recognition or gather up her skirts and flee for dear life.

Judge Hargis is quoted as having said in regard to resigning as a member of the state Democratic committee that he "would do as he pleased."
That's what he has been used to doing in Breathitt, where he came from. In fact most every man there except those opposed to the Hargis faction,
seems to do as he pleases.

Many of the gutters need flushing, and need it badly. Some of them in the heart of the city are so foul that people can hardly pass them.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Paducah at Cairo.
Jackson at Clarksville.
Hopkinsville at Henderson.

Other K. I. T. Games.

CLARKSVILLE TOOK BOTH.

Clarksville, Tenn., June 27.—Clarksville won both games from Jackson yesterday. Score: Clarksville 4-3, Jackson 0-1. Betts and Holmes, Gaston and Pettit; Holmes and Holmes, Gaston and Pettit.

PADUCAH DIDN'T PLAY.

Cairo, June 27.—Paducah and Cairo did not play yesterday on account of rain.

President Ben Weille stated this morning that the report relative to Dummy Hughes, Cairo's first baseman, coming here was false and that he had never talked to Hughes about signing with Paducah, and through respect and courtesy to the Cairo manager would not have thought of saying anything, even if Hughes did want to come here.

"Hughes and Wallace," Mr. Weille stated, "are with the Cairo team and have signed, I understand. I never had any intention of asking them to sign here and would not after Cairo has accepted them. They are both excellent men, but we can get players
just as good."

The local management has telegraphed to Danville for a deaf mute first baseman, who will be given his first trial at Cairo tomorrow. He has telegraphed that he will arrive here tomorrow morning and go down with the rooters on the City of St. Louis.
If he makes good President Weille will probably try a deaf mute fielder or two.

The local management has telegraphed to Fred Clark, manager of the Pittsburg team, asking him to send down two good pitchers right away. Paducah needs two good twirlers and will waste no time in acquiring them at any price.

There will be a double-header at Cairo tomorrow between the Cairo and Paducah teams and doubtless a large crowd will go down on the City of St. Louis to witness it. The postponement of yesterday's game on account of rain makes the extra game and the local boys will fight hard to take both. The boat will reach there in time for the two games, and both may be seen for one admission.

PITCHER HEDGES TO GO.

Pitcher Alonzo Hedges has not gone
to Milwaukee yet, but will leave immediately on receipt of his pass. He stated this morning relative to his release from the Paducah league team:
"I am somewhat in the dark as to what President Weille intends to do relative to giving me my release. I have asked him several times for it and each time he has refused. He tells the newspaper men that he will give me my release even if the Milwaukee team does not pay the $100
asked for it. I am going, nevertheless, even if I fail to secure it, and will leave as soon as I receive transportation."

Hedges is one of the best pitchers
in the league and his work has received favorable mention everywhere he has pitched. His reputation has not been confined to this state either,
as the Milwaukee offer will show.

FOURTH OF JULY GAME.

The match game at Wallace park
Fourth of July for the benefit of the Home of the Friendless, between the Pepoals and Coca Cola promises to be witnessed by a large crowd. It will be a hot game, and the following is the lineup.

Coca Cola—Hall, catcher; Haasman,
pitcher; Louis Rieck, first base; Weill,
second base; Minnich, third base;
Rudy, short stop; Alcott, left field;
Ashcraft, center field; Warren, right field.

Pepoals—Bishop, catcher; Marshall
Purvey, pitcher; Wright, first base;
Bryant, second base; Wilson Puryear,
third base; Wilcox, short stop; Pete
center field; Chastaine, right field.

The managers of the Centrals and the Knitting Mills baseball teams are arranging a game for the Fourth of July to be played at Wallace park probably. This will be a hotly contested game, as both teams are about equal in strength. The Y. M. C. A. team has also arranged a game with the Knitting Mills team for that morning probably, the latter team
playing two games on the Fourth.

WILL PLAY TODAY.

Although there has been considerable rain at Cairo since yesterday morning, a telephone message from there this afternoon said that it had cleared up sufficiently for the baseball clubs to play this afternoon, and that they will play.

NO FOURTH OF JULY GAME.

It has been definitely decided that there will be no game of ball here
July 4 between league teams, all efforts to secure a change of schedule proving futile.

GRAND LARCENY.

THREE PERSONS ARRESTED TO- DAY — ROCK THROWN THROUGH WINDOW.

Gerlie, John and Walter Perry were arrested this afternoon by Officer Aaron Huxley charged with the theft of a watch and $5 from Walter Guthrie. The theft is alleged to have been committed yesterday on South Tenth street. The woman disclaimed all knowledge of the theft and claims that the watch was brought to her house last night by a negro named Walter Evans who the officers are now looking for.

The police are looking for a woman who threw a rock through an I. C. cab window last evening on the Cairo extension of the I. C. and came near striking Engineer A. W. Sheppard.
The missile broke out the window but fortunately did not injure the engineer. If the name is learned and the woman caught she will be prosecuted
by the railroad company.

Steering Big Ships.

Marvelous progress has been made in marine architecture and equipment within the past few years. There was a time when the wheel house of a big ocean steamer contained eight stalwart men, who in rough weather
would find it almost a herculean task
to manage the wheel.

Nowadays the light touch of an infant's hand upon the wheels of sufficient power to turn a vessel completely around. Huge boats are steered by a steam apparatus which is as quick and effective as the touch
upon the ordinary electric button.

The death in Dublin of Miss Rose McDowell in her eighty-first year removes a link between the present generation and Daniel O'Connell. Miss McDowell in the closing years of Daniel O'Connell's life was a young lady of extraordinary talents and Published statements have been misrepresenting the telephone situation in Marshall county, according to Manager A. L. Joyner of the East Tennessee Telephone Co. here, who has charge of the work in Marshall.

The Cumberland company, under its state charter, can build through any county in the state without asking permission of anyone. Some time ago it started building from Paducah through Marshall county and it was reported some of the county officials said the company might have had the courtesy to ask the county's consent, and the company, as a matter of courtesy, then did ask it, and fiscal court refused it. The building of the line is going on just the same, and the county has nothing to do with it and cannot keep it out.

The line has been built nearly to Sharpe, and will touch the latter place about Monday. The line through to Benton will probably be completed by the end of July, possibly before. There are two routes the company chooses, but it will probably select the railroad route.

Calvin Stage Manager.

Maurice Grau's stage manager this season is a Belgian named Alman, a man of high professional reputation in Europe and a wonder of sartorial perfection. Amid the scenes of confusion that occur between acts he stands the picture of faultlessly dressed composure. He wears immaculate evening clothes, never removes his white gloves however strenuous the action of his subordinates may become and under no circumstances allows his opera hat to fall from under his arm. New York has never seen his equal.

THEY LAUGHED

NOW THEY ALL LAUGH.

"To think of scientific food helping me out of trouble seemed ridiculous," said a St. Louis woman.

"I used to read the published statements about Grape-Nuts in cynical way, hardly believing they were true. One day a neighbor who was calling while I was lying down as usual (and feeling terribly) said: 'I believe you eat entirely too much rich food and especially too much meat. I wish you would change your diet and use Grape-Nuts.' I laughed heartily and said: 'I see you have been reading the newspapers too.' 'Yes,' she replied, 'and I have become a convert, for my husband, who, you know, is busy in the office all day, and whose nervous system was completely run down, has got so well and hearty by giving up the heavy meat breakfast and living on a diet of cooked fruit, Grape-Nuts and cream and Postum Food Coffee for breakfast. He is a new man and has not been near a physician for two months.'

"I did not wonder that she was enthusiastic, so I began to investigate to see Grape-Nuts, getting nothing else for my 7 o'clock supper. I felt entirely satisfied and rested better that night than I had for months.

"The family all laughed at me, but the next morning I ate my Grape-Nuts and cream, some stewed fruit and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. That day I felt amiable with myself and the whole world at large, and my feelings were so good and comfortable that I concluded to keep on with my new food.

"After about two weeks on this kind of diet my family began to see the change in me. I had lost my nervous, cross, irritable manner and I could sleep all night soundly. My face was round and my complexion was quite clear, with a tinge of rosy color in my cheeks. In about a month I had gained ten pounds and my family all became converts to Grape-Nuts, which we have used now for some time. We are all in perfect health and my grocery bill is nothing like as large as it used to be.

"I am now so well and strong that I feel able to do anything I want to. Headband says the food should be called 'Gold-Nuts.' I notice a marked change in my mental capacity. Formerly I could not concentrate my mind on any book or any one thing; now that is all changed. I can read steadily and think logically from premise to conclusion, an excellent evidence, to my mind, of the brain-building power of Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Gardening Superstitions.

In some set we plant cabbages with the waning moon, certain that as they will grow and be luscious. If we put them in, or set any flower or fruit tree when the white indyship was gibbous in the attenuating scale, our labor would be vain, for that which we planted would but waste with Dinn. Just so, when horseradish needs, as this engaging plant generally does, to be eradicated, the right time to begin is in the moon's eye of the veil. Another West Country tradition forbids ladies of the valley to be set in a bed under pain of not distant death to the operator.—London Garden.

Willing to Take a Chance.

There is a restaurant keeper with a new and capacious place on the upper West Side about whom a story is going the rounds. This "mine host" makes no secret of the fact that when he arrived in America as a youth he had more fingers and toes than dollars, and that it is due to his own industry that he now can command his little army of cooks, waiters and other help, says the New York Times. When he opened an addition to his rooms recently his friends were surprised to see a crest emblazoned conspicuously on various parts of the wall. The glassware also bears the crest.

"I say, Pat," said a friend recently, "where did you get that crest?"

"That belonged to a klog of my name in Ireland," was the reply.

"And I suppose you were one of the royal family?"

"Well, I don't know," was the confidential reply. "I looked it up in the Astor library. There were several hundred years to account for, but I thought I'd take a chance."

An Encouraging Example.

J. Pierpont Morgan is an example of what a young man who has saved up a few million may do in this country, if he will let horse racing and similar expensive frivolities alone.

ONE OF THE "LITTLE MOTHERS."

Cares for Invalid Mother and Five Small Folks—Earning Their Living.
"One of the most remarkable children I know," said a woman who aids in the distributing of alms, "is a little girl of 11 who lives down in Suffolk street and who comes to us once each month for the pittance we allow her mother."

"Being the eldest of a large family and her mother a chronic invalid, she cooks, washes and looks after the smaller children, whom she also instructs in the Hebrew catechism. The mother, before her sickness, was employed to take charge of the baths maintained in connection with a certain synagogue, and the child still keeps the place, although she is so small in stature that she has to stand up on a stool to do the cleaning."

"She speaks with the gravity of an old woman. The other day she told us what she thought was the best thing to do for a child with croup and explained how she had doctored her baby brother when he had an attack. A young church woman is giving her sewing lessons whenever she has the time to take them and she makes good progress with the needle."—New York Sun

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and liver troubles that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constipation, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists.

TO KEEP TOBACCO MOIST.

Dealer Asserts That Lemon Is the Best Thing Known.

"A lemon," says a tobaccoist in the Philadelphia Record, "is a far better tobacco moisture than a sponge. Take a lemon, slice a piece off each end and put it in your tobacco box, if you want to keep your cigars or smoking mixture in nice shape. A good, juicy lemon will sometimes last a couple of months as a moisture, and it imparts to the tobacco an added fragrance. The beauty about the lemon as a moisture is that it does not mildew in the way that a sponge does. The latter, you know, when left water-soaked, rots and gives out an unpleasant odor. Some people I've told about the use of lemons as moisture have tried oranges as well, and assure me that either fruit will answer. One of my customers keeps a lemon, orange and a piece of apple in his tobacco jar, and he says that the fruit keeps the tobacco moist and soft and gives it a delightful flavor. The lemon and orange are, of course, sliced at each end."

COURSES AT CHINESE DINNER.

Wonderful Edibles Served at San Francisco Banquet.

At a Chinese dinner given in San Francisco in honor of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson there were among the queer things served: Bird's nest soup came in four different courses. According to one guest, it was transparent, tasteless, utterly uninviting, and more like wallpaper paste than anything else. Chinese ants took the place of salted almonds. Then there were dried eels sliced in chicken broth, sharks cooked in a dozen ways and served in several courses, "lotus flower," consisting of a slice of fat pork, a slice of dried duck and a piece of preserved watermelon, so arranged that one could take a bit of all three at once; dried mushrooms, turtles, preserved ducks' eggs, shark's air bladders in oil, abalone meat, a dainty worth its weight in gold, being a tiny part of a little sea animal; the web of duck's feet, duck which had been baked, stuffed with mushrooms and steamed, and almond gruel.

Napoleon's Idea of Journalist.

The worst recommendation that any man could have in Napoleon's eyes was to be a newspaper writer. Shortly after the 18th Brumaire, Table de l'Arade, who was always a favorite with the emperor, solicited an appointment for one of his acquaintances. "What has he done?" asked Napoleon. "He has been a journalist." "A journalist? That means a grumbler, a censorer, a giver of advice, a regent of sovereigns, a tutor of nations. The Bicetre is the fittest place for people of that stamp." Suppose Napoleon lived to-day, with his every thought anticipated in the newspapers! Some good newspaper advice might have saved him in the Russian campaign and later at Waterloo.—New York Press.

GRAUSTARK

... By ...
GEORGE BARR MCCUTCHEON

Copyright, 1901, by Herbert S. Stone

"Without hope for either," she sobbed.

"My poor little soldier," he whispered lovingly as her body writhed under the storm of tears.

"I—I wish—I were a—soldier!" she wailed. He comforted her as best he could, and soon she was quiet—oh, so very quiet! Her head was on his shoulder, her hands in his.

"How far do we drive?" he asked at last.

"To the monastery. We are nearly there," she answered in tones far away.

"The monastery? Why do we go there?" he cried.

"You are to stay there."

"What do you mean? I thought I was to leave Graustark."

"You are to leave—later on. Until the excitement is over the abbey is to be your hiding place. I have arranged everything, and it is the only safe place on earth for you at this time. No one will think of looking for you up there."

"I would to God I could stay there forever, living above you," he said dreamily.

"Your window looks down upon the castle; mine looks up to yours. The lights that burn in those two windows will send out beams of love and life for one of us at least."

"For both of us, my sweetheart," he corrected fondly. "You say I will be safe there. Can you trust these men who are aiding you?"

"With my life! Quinnox carried a message to the abbey yesterday, and he grants you a temporary house there, secure and as secret as the tomb. He promises me this, and he is my best friend. Now, let me tell you why I am with you, masquerading so shamefully—"

"Adorably!" he protested.

"It is because the abbey insisted that I bring you to him personally. He will not receive you except from my hands. There was nothing else for me to do, then, was there, Lorry? I was compelled to come, and I could not come as the princess—as a woman. Discovery would have meant degradation from which I could not have hoped to recover. The military garments were my only safeguard."

"And how many people know of your—deception?"

"Three besides yourself—Dagmar, Quinnox and Captain Dangloss. The abbey will know later on, and I shiver as I think of it. The driver and the man who went to your cell, Oghot, know of the escape, but do not know I am here. Alas!—you remember him—le our driver."

"Alas! He's the fellow who saw me—er—who was in the throne room."

"He is the man who saw nothing, sir."

"I remember his obedience," he said, laughing in spite of his unhappiness. "Am I to have no freedom up here—no liberty at all?"

"You are to act as the abbey or the prior instructs, and I must not forget, Quinnox will visit you occasionally. He will conduct you from the monastery and to the border line at the proper time."

"Alas, he will be my murderer, I fear! Yet, you do not believe I killed Lorenz. I know that most of them do, but I swear to you I am no more the perpetrator of that cowardly crime than you. God bears testimony to my innocence. I want to hear you say that you do not believe I killed him."

"I feared so at first—no, do not be angry—I feared you had killed him for my sake, but now I am sure that you are innocent."

The carriage stopped too soon, and Quinnox opened the door. It was still as dark as pitch, but the downpour had ceased except for a disagreeable, misty drizzle, cold and penetrating.

"We have reached the stopping place," he said.

"And we are to walk from here to the gate," said the princess, resuming her hoarse, manly tones. While they were busy donning their raincoats she whispered in Lorry's ear, "I beg of you, do not let him know that you have discovered who I am."

He promised, and lightly snatched a kiss, an act of indiscretion that almost brought fatal results. Forgetful of the darkness, she gave vent to a little protesting shriek, fearing that the eyes of the captain had witnessed the pretty transgression. Lorry laughed as he sprang to the road and turned to assist her in alighting. She promptly and thoughtfully averted the danger his gallantry presented by ignoring the outstretched hands, discernible as slender shadows protruding from an object a shade darker than the night, and leaped boldly to the ground.

With Lorry in the center, the trio walked off rapidly in the darkness, the fugitive with the sense of fear that belongs only to a blind man. A little light far ahead told the position of the gate, and for this they bent their steps. Reaching the gate, the captain pounded vigorously, and a sleepy monk soon peered from the little window through which shone the light.

"On important business with the abbey, from her royal highness the Princess Yelive," said Quinnox in response to a sharp query, spoken in the Graustark tongue. A little gate beside the big one opened, and the monk, lantern in hand, bade them enter.

"Await me here, captain," commanded the slim, straight soldier, with face turned from the light. A moment later the gate closed, and Lorry was behind the walls of St. Valentine's, a prisoner again. The monk preceded them across the dark court toward the great black mass, his lantern creating ghastly shadows against the broken mist. His followers dropped some little distance behind, the tall one's arm stealing about the other's waist, his head bending to a level with hers.

"Is it to be goodly, dearest?" he asked. "Goodly forever?"

"I cannot say that. It would be like wishing you dead. Yet there is no hope. No, no! We will not say goodby—forever," she said despairingly.

"Won't you bid me hope?"

"Impossible! You will stay here until Quinnox comes to take you away. Then you must not stop until you are in your own land. We may meet again."

"Yes, by my soul, we shall meet again! I'll do as you bid and all that, but I'll come back when I can stay away no longer. Go to your castle and look forward to the day that will find me at your feet again. It is bound to come."

They passed inside the massive doors and halted. "You must remain here until I have seen the prior," she said, laughing nervously and glancing down at the boots which showed beneath the long coat. Then she hastily followed the monk, disappearing down the corridor, in ten minutes—ten hours to Lorry—she returned with her guide.

"He will take you to your room," she said breathlessly, displaying unmistakable signs of embarrassment. "Goodby, and God be with you always. Remember, I love you."

The monk's back was turned, so the new recruit watched the slight figure to his heart.

"Some day?" he whispered.

"She would not speak, but he held her until she nodded her head."

CHAPTER XX.
THE APPROACHING ORDEAL.

THE AMERICAN has escaped! was the cry that spread through Edelweiss the next morning.

It brought undiminished relief to the faces of thousands. There was not one who upbraided Baron Dangloss for his astounding negligence. Never before had a criminal escaped from the tower. The only excuse, uttered in a woe-begone tone, was that the prison had not been constructed or manned for such clever secondhands as Yankees—good name for audacity.

The full story of the daring break for liberty flashed from lip to lip during the day, and it was known all over the water swept city before noon. Baron Dangloss himself had gone to the prisoner's cell early in the morning, mystified by the continued absence of the guard. The door was locked, but from within came groans and cries. Alarmed at once, the captain procured duplicate keys and entered the cell. There he found the helpless, blood covered Oghot, bound hand and foot and almost dead from loss of blood. The clothes of the American were on the floor, while his own were missing, gone with the prisoner.

Oghot as soon as he was able related his experience of the night before. It was while making his rounds at midnight that he heard moans from the cell. Animated by a feeling of pity, he opened the slab door and asked if he were ill. The wretched American was lying on the bed, apparently suffering. He said something which the guard could not understand, but which he took to be a plea for assistance. Not suspecting a trick, the kindly guard unlocked the second door and stepped to the bedside only to have the sick man rise suddenly and deal him a treacherous blow over the head with the heavy stool he had secreted behind him. Oghot knew nothing of what followed, so effective was the blow. When he regained consciousness, he was lying on the bed just as the captain had found him. The poor fellow, overwhelmed by the enormity of his mistake, begged Dangloss to shoot him at once. But Dangloss had him conveyed to the hospital ward and tenderly cared for.

Three guards in one of the offices saw a man whom they supposed to be Oghot pass from the prison shortly after 12, and the mortified chief admitted that some one had gone through his private apartment. As the prisoner had taken Oghot's keys, he experienced little difficulty in getting outside the gates. But, vowed Dangloss stormily, he should be recaptured if it required the efforts of all the policemen in Edelweiss. The chagrin of the grim old captain, who had never lost a prisoner, was pitiful to behold.

The forenoon was half over before Harry Anguish heard of his friend's escape. To say that he was paralyzed would be putting it much too mildly. There is no language that can adequately describe his sensations. Forgetting his bodyguard, he tore down the street toward the prison, wild with anxiety and doubt. He met Baron Dangloss, tired and worn, near the gate, but the old officer could tell him nothing except what he had learned from

"Oh, I beg pardon!"

Oghot. Of one thing there could be no doubt—Lorry was gone. Not knowing where to turn or what to do, Anguish raced off to the castle, his bodyguard having located him in the meantime. He was more in need of their protection than ever.

At the castle gates he encountered a party of raving Asphalians, crazed with anger over the flight of the man whose life they had thirsted for so ravenously. Had he been unprotected Anguish would have fared badly at their hands, for they were outpoken in their assertions that he had aided Lorry in the escape. One fiery little fellow cast a glove in the American's face and expected a challenge. Anguish snapped his fingers and sarcastically invited the insolent to meet him next winter in a battle with snowballs, upon which the aggressor blasphemed in three languages and 300 gestures. Anguish and his men passed inside the gates, which had been barred to the others, and struck out rapidly for the castle doors.

The Princess Yelive was sleeping soundly, peacefully, with a smile on her lips, when her prime minister sent an excited attendant to inform her of the prisoner's escape. She sat up in bed, and, with her hands clasped about her knees, sleepily announced that she would receive him after her coffee was served. Then she summoned her maids.

Her uncle and aunt, the Countess Dagmar (whose merry brown eyes were so full of pretended dismay that the princess could scarcely restrain a smile), and Gaspon, the minister of finance, were awaiting her appearance. She heard the count's story of the escape, marveled at the prisoner's audacity and firmly announced that everything possible should be done to apprehend him. With a perplexed frown on her brow and a dubious twist to her lips, she said:

"I suppose I must offer a reward?"

"Certainly!" exclaimed her uncle.

"About 50 gavvos, uncle?"

"Fifty?" cried the two men, agitated.

"Isn't that enough?"

"For the murderer of a prince?" demanded Gaspon. "It would be absurd, your highness. He is a most important person."

"Quite so. He is a most important person. I think I'll offer 5,000 gavvos."

"More like it. He is worth that, at least," agreed Uncle Gaspon.

"Beyond a doubt," sanctioned Gaspon.

"I am glad you do not consider me extravagant," she said demurely. "You may have the placards printed at once," she went on, addressing the treasurer. "Say that a reward of 5,000 gavvos will be paid to the person who delivers Graustark Lorry to me."

"Would it not be better to say 'delivers Graustark Lorry to the tower?'"

"You may say 'to the undersigned' and sign my name," she said reflectively.

"Very well, your highness. They shall be struck off this morning."

"A large type, Gaspon. You must catch him if you can," she added. "He is a very dangerous man, and royalty needs protection." With this wise bit of caution she dismissed the subject and began to talk of the storm.

As the two young plotters were hastening up the stairs later on an attendant approached and informed the princess that Mr. Anguish requested an audience.

"Conduct him to my boudoir," she said, her eyes sparkling with triumph. In the seclusion of the boudoir she and the countess laughed like children over the reward that had been so solemnly ordered.

"Five thousand gavvos!" cried Dagmar, leaning back in her chair to emphasize the delight she felt. "What a joke!"

Tsp, tap, came a knock on the door, and in the same instant it flew open, for Mr. Anguish was in a hurry. As he plunged into their presence a pair of heels found the floor spasmodically.

"Oh, I beg pardon!" he gasped as if about to fly. "May I come in?"

"Not unless you go outside. You are already in, it seems," said the princess, advancing to meet him. The countess was very still and sedate. "I am so glad you have come."

"Heard about Lorry? The fool is out and gone!" he cried, unable to restrain himself. Without a word she dragged him to the divan, and, between them, he soon had the whole story poured into his ears, the princess on one side, the countess on the other. "You are a wonder!" he exclaimed when all the facts were known to him. He executed a little dance of approval, entirely out of place in the boudoir of a princess, but very much in touch with prevailing sentiment. "But what a become of me?" he asked after cooling down. "I have no excuse for remaining in Graustark, and I don't like to leave him here either."

Correct Summer Clothing

The Kind That Won't Lose Shape

Did you ever notice how quick thin clothing loses its shape? It's because it is not made right. We overcome that fault in our Correct Summer Clothing—we've had it made a new way. The coats have a full shoulder, with hair-cloth stiffening down the front, that keeps them from breaking or losing shape. The pants have cuff bottoms, concealed buttons and felt straps, the cloth is thoroughly shrunk which overcomes bagging at the knee. There's no clothing like it for fit and style in Paducah. We show the new Irish Donegal Cloths, Cheviots and House-spuns in coats and pants for men and young men.

By "X-Rays."

Just for once won't you try a pair of shoes that are not made from guesswork measurements of what your foot ought to be, but from "X-ray" photographs of what women's feet really are?

The "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe is exactly shaped to the bones, muscles, and ligaments of the foot, as they are plainly revealed by "X-ray" photograph. This is the explanation of why you hear so much talk on all sides about the wonderful "Fit of a 'Dorothy Dodd.'" The shoe deserves its popular nickname of "an arrangement in comfort." But all this is of no help to you unless you own a pair. On the day you buy them you will learn a new lesson in Foot Comfort.

After that, no one can sell you any other shoe but a "Dorothy Dodd."
